Bio

I'm a software developer with a passion for computer science. I earned a Bachelor's degree in Software engineering from the University of Sydney. After graduating, I joined a startup company and have been involved in cutting-edge, project-based work as a Software Engineer. I find the field of software engineering rewarding and I am excited to be a part of it. Professionally, my primary languages are C, Java, Python, Haskell, Prolog, HTML and JavaScript, using Visual Studio and Eclipse.
